In her powerful and moving memoir, No Saints Around Here, Dawn Eden Goldstein shares her raw and honest account of caring for her aging parents. With unflinching candor, she describes the challenges, frustrations, and heartbreaks of caring for her mother, who is suffering from Alzheimer's disease, and her father, who is struggling with dementia. But amidst the pain and sorrow, Goldstein also finds moments of joy, love, and redemption. She learns to appreciate the small things in life and to find strength in the face of adversity.

No Saints Around Here is a must-read for anyone who has ever loved and lost. It is a story about the power of family, the resilience of the human spirit, and the importance of finding joy in the darkest of times.

Praise for No Saints Around Here

"A beautifully written and deeply moving memoir about the challenges and rewards of caregiving. Goldstein's honesty and courage will resonate with anyone who has ever loved and lost." — Emily Giffin, author of *Something Borrowed

"No Saints Around Here is a powerful and unflinching look at the realities of caregiving. Goldstein's writing is raw and honest, but it is also full of love and compassion. This is a must-read for anyone who has ever cared for a loved one." — Lori Gottlieb, author of *Maybe You Should Talk to Someone

"A heartbreaking and hopeful memoir about the challenges and rewards of caregiving. Goldstein's writing is both honest and compassionate, and she offers a unique perspective on the experience of caring for aging parents. This is a must-read for anyone who has ever loved and lost." — Booklist
